

The Immigration Expert

PASSION AND DEDICATION—ALONG with an ability to apply complex federal laws to life-changing situations—have been the hallmarks of Alejandro “Alex” Campillo’s 28-year-career as a nationally recognized immigration lawyer.

Growing up in Calexico, Alex learned old-school values and the ability to find efficient solutions to complex problems. Campillo graduated from Stanford University and joined President Jimmy Carter’s administration to work on immigration reform. In 1980, he graduated from the USD School of Law.

Renowned for advanced work in immigration litigation and business-visa transactional matters, in 1992 he was among the first certified specialists in immigration and nationality law by the State Bar of California. His global business practice serves multinational corporations, investors, scientists, athletes, entertainers and professionals.

Campillo holds an outstanding record of success before immigration judges, the Board of Immigration Appeals and the 9th Circuit Court of Appeals. Mixing passion and dedication, his practice emphasizes advanced litigation and transactional matters.

Defending clients facing banishment is an enormous responsibility. It requires hours of work and the conviction that his client deserves to live in America, and all the benefits that entails. “Unbelievably satisfying,” he says of his practice. Campillo’s other passions include job creation and economic development projects in his hometown and African hunting safaris. He is proud of his sons—one is a wild-life biologist, and the other graduated this year from Harvard with honors.
